Stretching upward toward the sky itself and, through trick photography, dwarfing the Terminal Tower across the Public Square is the outdoor elevator shaft built on the west side of the Society for Savings Building. The shaft was constructed to transport materials to upper floors where they will be used in our remodeling and re-decorating program.

The framework of the shaft itself extends to the fourth floor level, where work is now in progress to remove office wall partitions. The concrete flooring has already been laid.

This unusual photograph was taken by our Forty-Niner staff cameraman, Al Nelson, who has promised us a series of photographs showing the progress of the construction program.

Cleveland's Beacon

SYMBOL OF OHIO'S LARGEST CITY, the Terminal Tower is a beacon light in the Cleveland skyline. This unusual photographic study was made by Al S. Nelson, cameraman for The Forty-Niner and member of Society's Legal Department. Al submitted the picture to the Cleveland Press and was surprised to find it heading Page 2 of the September 10 edition.

Nelson, who holds membership in the Camera Guild, began photography two years ago and takes his hobby seriously. His camera is one of the best, a German made Ikoflex II. It has the famous Zeiss Tessar lens and can stop motion at 1/500 of a second. To obtain this unusual study in light and shadow, he set his tripod at the base of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument and timed the exposure at five minutes.

SCENES taken behind the scenes of our former parking lot to the rear of the building, where excavation is going on to provide us with needed basement space, show how rapidly work is progressing. Photographer Al Nelson snapped these "on the job" scenes for this cover layout in The Forty-Niner.

(1) Trenches being cut are to be filled in with concrete and reinforced with steel to wall in the new basement area.

(2) Bird's-eye view of the action taken from Society's roof top.

(3) An 18 ton truck crane is used in cutting the ground.

(4) Time out for lunch and relaxation with some of the workmen.

Enlargements of these pictures will soon be included in a photographic series which Al Nelson is making for Society during our expansion program.

When completed, the new underground area will house a completely modern School Savings banking room. Entrance will be via a stairway located on the northeast section of the main floor. That way Junior will be able to make his School Savings deposit while his mother does her banking on the main floor.

Community Chest Asks Aid

IN 1947, for the first time since 1941, all funds raised in the 30th annual appeal of the Greater Cleveland Community Chest will be for regular Chest purposes. The goal set for this year's campaign for the support of 101 Red Feather agencies of the Community Chest is $4,928,000 (an increase of $172,324 over that of last year). The increase is needed to cover rising living costs which make it impossible to render the same services per dollar as in previous years.

Despite the fact that individual incomes have increased considerably in the past few years to compensate for the increase in living costs, Chest Hospitals and welfare agencies are not able to slacken their services. The post-war period is proving one of family and individual turmoil—family upsets, juvenile delinquency, mental ills. Your support is needed when the Community Chest makes its annual appeal October 20-30.
